I have read the terms and conditions of authorship of IJME and accept them. Agree

I think my paper is suitable for publication in an ethics journal because:(in not more than 100 words)

My paper discusses the ethical issues pertaining to clinical laboratories. It is pertinent that ethical considerations are discussed on priority by laboratory physicians and hospital management. This paper highlights the various ethical considerations that need to be addressed during the total testing cycle while working in a resource constrained settings and the ethical conundrums during an public health crisis.
