Editors of Indian Journal of Medical Ethics

Re: DO HEALTH CARE INSTITUTIONS SUPPORT HEALTH WORKERS TO ACHIEVE
ROLE AS HEALTHY ROLE MODEL? - AN EXPLORATORY STUDY

Dear Editors of IJME,

Enclosed please find a manuscript titled, "Do Health Care Institutions Support Health Workers to Achieve Role as Healthy Role Model", which we would like to submit for consideration for publication as an original research article in the Indian Journal of Medical Ethics. It is about behavior research in the health workers in Pontianak, Indonesia. Health workers are considered as credible people in the community, therefore to be a role model should be a part of the responsibility as a person working in the health field. In Indonesia, this is mentioned in the Ethic Code of health profession especially for doctors, nutritionists and nurses in performing as a role model of healthy behavior.

This work has been approved by all of the contributing authors by the undersigned and has not been published previously nor been submitted elsewhere for consideration of publication. We appreciate this opportunity to submit our manuscript and hope that your reviewers and editorial staff find our study relevant and of great interest to your journal.

We give consent to Dr. Agustina Arundina Triharja Tejoyuwono, S.Gz., RD., MPH to act as the author for correspondence, and we have read the term and conditions of authorship of IJME and accept them. Thank you for your kind attention. If you have any questions, please contact me at the address listed below.

Sincerely yours,
